

Hundreds of butterflies fly in the air. The spell is unbroken and love is everywhere. The white-winged butterflies signify purity of the atmosphere. Something is about to take Place. That is accompanied with the scent of apple tree flowers. Spirit is present, where those flowers grow. It knows the present, future and past. That are intertwined in the universe. White light shines through the tangled weeds and branches. It includes the magical opening in between the two worlds. A Silver chalice is filled with cherry red wine. It is consumed By a witch, who is dressed in black. She takes her athame in her hand and points it to the sky. Then she calls the spirit to enter inside her. It goes inside her and it takes over her body. She drops the athame and goes into a trance. In her dream, she encounters dancing butterflies. The light behind her back becomes brighter. She feels how the universe is connected from here to eternity.
